

In recent months political violence in Kenya has restricted the travel of well drillers and health promoters from Lifewater International's Kenyan partner organizations. But it has not stopped them from working. When violence kept her indoors, Elizabeth, a health promoter with Lifewater partner GWAKO, creatively carried on her work from home. She explained,

"I really found it rough because I was not used to staying in the house for that long. So I formed a class of school-aged children within the estate. I am now going through the training manual [Lifewater's hygiene manual] with them. I covered the lesson "Clean Hands Clean Hearts," the definition and causes of germs, and spiritual waste. They liked it. . . . Continue praying for us."

Elizabeth's home lessons began with a few children and grew to include numerous neighbors of all ages. Unable to go to school or work because of the violence, her neighbors greatly appreciated this learning opportunity!

Your participation in Significant Sacrifice: An Easter Journey supports the work of Elizabeth and others like her who sacrifice every day to help their people experience God's love through safe water, sanitation, and hygiene education.

As you celebrate Easter, please pray for the well-being of our Kenyan partners and for peace in that nation. May you be blessed by knowing your sacrifice will make a positive impact on communities in need!

You are making a difference.

www.lifewater.org

In recent months political violence in Kenya has restricted the travel of well drillers and health promoters from Lifewater International's Kenyan partner organizations. But it has not stopped them from working. When violence kept her indoors, Elizabeth, a health promoter with Lifewater partner GWAKO, creatively carried on her work from home. She explained,

"I really found it rough because I was not used to staying in the house for that long. So I formed a class of school-aged children within the estate. I am now going through the training manual [Lifewater's hygiene manual] with them. I covered the lesson "Clean Hands Clean Hearts," the definition and causes of germs, and spiritual waste. They liked it. . . . Continue praying for us."

Elizabeth's home lessons began with a few children and grew to include numerous neighbors of all ages. Unable to go to school or work because of the violence, her neighbors greatly appreciated this learning opportunity!

Your participation in Significant Sacrifice: An Easter Journey supports the work of Elizabeth and others like her who sacrifice every day to help their people experience God's love through safe water, sanitation, and hygiene education.

As you celebrate Easter, please pray for the well-being of our Kenyan partners and for peace in that nation. May you be blessed by knowing your sacrifice will make a positive impact on communities in need!

You are making a difference.

www.lifewater.org

